SLM03: Impromptu Speeches in RPM 511
Providing Department: Recreation & Parks Management (BS)

Source of Evidence
Students required to give impromptu speeches taking into account public speaking skills, such as eye contact with audience, content, delivery, etc. The speeches are measured using a rubric-based evaluation instrument. Rubric guided assessments will place the student on a scale reflecting five levels: mastery, competency, meeting minimum standards, not meeting minimum standards, and no competency.

This is the required capstone course for all CTR majors. It is also the department’s speaking-intensive course. This course averages 50-60 students per academic year.
